LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Ida Brown visited Mr. and Mrs. Harris Howard at White Oak yesterday.

Mrs. E. Z. Manning on South Main street had a bad heart attack Saturday. She is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. George Little moved a few days ago back to their farm a few miles from town.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie McClain are cosily located in an apartment in Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McKenzie's residence.

W. H. Childers returned Tuesday from Columbus, Ohio, where he spent several days with his brother, Wyck.

Mrs. Wardell Walter of Washington, D. C., came in yesterday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henson moved Monday into an apartment in Mrs. J. D. Lykins' residence on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown moved Friday back to Wells Hill, where Mr. Brown can spend more time in the open air.

Henry J. Jones of Mt. Sterling attended the junior-senior banquet while here as a week end guest of Miss Neil Carkey.

Rev. and Mrs. Clyde Boggs and little son Jimmy, of Mt. Sterling, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Caskey.

J. M. Felner of London, district 4-H club leader of eastern Kentucky, attended the county club meeting here Monday and gave an address.

Aunt Martha Caskey is the proud possessor of 73 little chicks, all hatched under her own direction in the good old way with setting hens.

Miss Pearl Barber of Dehart spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. Earl Murphy, and attended some of the commencement exercises.

George Steele of Morehead spent Saturday here with his uncle, Frank Steele, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Caskey. He is visiting his relatives, Tom and Pomp Adams, on Spaw's creek.

E. C. Rose's entire family, excluding himself, were in bed a few days, the children with measles and Mrs. Rose with throat trouble. Two of the children are convalescing and Mrs. Rose also is improving.

C. C. May has moved back to his farm at Woodbend and will raise potatoes and chickens until school starts next fall, when he expects to return to West Liberty as a teacher in the new school building here.

By special arrangement with Patrick & Prater, undertakers at Salyersville, the Red Cross and state police headquarters here will have at their service two ambulances all day Monday, May 24, during the dedication services here.

In sending us a check for the renewal of his Courier subscription, W. S. Potts of this place says he has not missed a single issue of the paper since it was launched under the management of H. G. Cottle, more than a quarter of a century ago.

Rev. and Mrs. Harlen Murphy and grandson Cleo went to Middletown, Ohio, on Thursday of last week and visited Mrs. Murphy's daughter, Mrs. Goebel Conley, and family, and Rev. Murphy's sons, Leonard and Dillon, returning home Monday. They enjoyed the trip and visits very much.

Born, May 15, to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murphy on South Water street, a nine pound girl. Since that event the streets of West Liberty are hardly wide enough for Mr. Murphy. Although he is such a proud father, the mother had to quiet him by inviting the Earl to a life-long handicap with the unsuspecting little Patricia.

Miss Lovel M. Brong, age 12, prepared a real nice dinner for the birthday of her older sister, Margaret, on Tuesday. The table was nicely arranged and everything was well prepared. At the close of the meal she brought in her white cake nicely iced and adorned with pink candles. The next surprise was a dish of delicious strawberries, which she served with the cake.

FOR MAGISTRATE

While in town Monday, I. R. Bowling of Redwine announced his candidacy for magistrate on the Republican ticket at the August primary.

Mr. Bowling is a substantial farmer and taxpayer and has many shrewd friends who wish to give him an opportunity to serve as magistrate for the next four years, feeling sure that he will serve them and the county with distinction and honor.

ONE GOOD DEED

The supreme court more than a year ago invalidated the government's well worked out AAA program. That was bad.

Now the court has handed down a decision (by a 5 to 4 vote) that process taxes paid by corporations to the government after the tax had first been collected from producers to the extent of many million dollars is not returnable to the corporations unless these corporations furnish proof that they actually paid the taxes and did not collect them from the producers. This decision will meet with general approval of fair minded people and will erase one of the many black marks chalked up against our august court body.

Muddled New York

To accommodate the state of New York, the nation gave up its prohibition amendment. The evils of prohibition days are in evidence in every state, but nowhere else so glaring as in New York. Divorces with "ign marriage" as the basis are clogging the courts of the state. The legislature now in session has just passed an act requiring a lapse of 72 hours between the issuance of a marriage license and the performance of the marriage ceremony (with drinks prohibited in the interim, we presume).

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation and thanks to our neighbors and friends for the sympathy and kindness, including the flowers, extended to us during the illness and death of husband and father, H. M. Havens.

ALWILD HAVENS AND FAMILY

Will You Help?

The committee named to find parking space for cars hereby requests the home people to keep their cars in the garage, or at least off the streets, on Monday, May 24.

E. B. Cottle, R. D. Cottle, and Glen Johnson went to Huntington, W. Va., on Thursday of last week and returned with a truckload of Electrolux refrigerators.

CURTAIN DOWN

Commencement week has closed. Wednesday evening the teachers and pupils of the first three grades put on a program on which they had worked hard, with the assistance of Mrs. J. D. Moore. The ABC class deserves special mention. Each child was an armless statue. The costume was a large paper bag, gathered around the neck and falling over the statue. On this was painted a large black letter. Another bag, with openings for nose and eyes, was drawn over the head. In their drill they spelled: "Welcome blockheads—tired?" "Goodbye." "Belling the Cat" was a fine climax. What appeared to be real mice, altho they could talk, sat on little chairs making plans when it trotted the cat on all fours. The mice scampered.

Thursday night was class day exercise. The seniors were on the stage sitting on the fence. The poet, historian, will, giftorian, legend, picture, flower, etc.—all were interesting. All spoke clearly and with expression. The juniors promptly marched upon the stage as the satisfied seniors calmly climbed over the fence. The president waited to present the gavel to the junior president, Joe Caudill, who responded with the dignity and coolness becoming his office.

Friday night the salutatorian and valedictorian both spoke well. The other speaker of the evening, Jesse Adams of the state university, lived up to his reputation. He spoke on good citizenship and brought out many points worthy of careful consideration. His address was instructive and entertaining.

The week's entertainment closed Saturday night with the P.T.A. play, "The House of Seven Gables." The characters were well chosen and performed well.

FOR CIRCUIT COURT CLERK

A great many people have talked to me about becoming a candidate for the office of circuit court clerk of Morgan county. After giving the matter careful thought, I have decided to become a candidate for the office. My decision has been prompted by the many people who have advised me that the public generally wants a change in this office.

I am, therefore, taking this means of announcing to the voters of Morgan county that I will be a candidate for circuit court clerk in the Democratic primary to be held on the first Saturday in August.

I have lived in Morgan county all my life and was educated in the public schools of Morgan county, in Berea academy, Frenchburg high school, and Richmond Teachers' college. I taught school for sixteen years and have devoted my time to farming since I quit teaching school.

I would not make this announcement if I did not feel that I was qualified to hold the office and serve the people as they have the right to be served, and if I should have the honor of being nominated and elected to this office, I will express to you my appreciation for your assistance by rendering to you conscientiously, efficiently, and impartially all of the duties of this office.

NOAH P. GREER, Greer, Kentucky.

CAR WRECK

W. H. Stacy and Bill McKenzie started to Portsmouth, Ohio, Tuesday morning and had a serious car wreck in loose gravel near Wyatt, in Elliott county.

Mr. McKenzie was driving Roland Stacy's car, which has four wheel brakes. The brakes had been troublesome for some time, and McKenzie knew about it, but thought he could handle the car anyhow. In applying the brakes to slow down when he struck the loose gravel, the left front wheel stuck and turned the car over and down a bank 40 feet high. McKenzie had a dislocated shoulder and W. H. Stacy has a badly cut head and is in the hospital here.

Arthur Friend was on his way to Ashland and found the wrecked party and returned them to their homes here and then with Roland Stacy made the trip to Portsmouth. The car has been returned here and will be ready to run before the unlucky occupants.

ARNETT IS ADVANCING

Miles R. Arnett, formerly of Insko, who entered the U. S. marine corps Feb. 6, 1935, at the marine office in Macon, Ga., is now serving in the marine detachment at the naval war college, Newport, R. I., according to an announcement by Major J. M. Tildsley, recruiting officer at Macon. Arnett formerly served at Parris Island, S. C., and at Quantico, Va. While serving with the fleet force at Quantico, he made the maneuvers conducted in the Caribbean Sea area and visited many seaport cities of the tropical islands and countries in that section of the world.

During the year many of the nation's best youths will be needed by the marines for training. Major Tildsley stated. Data on physical and mental requirements for enlistment in this arm of the military service can be obtained from the Macon recruiting headquarters.

CANTRILL — BRADLEY

Miss Ruby D. Cantrell of West Liberty and Russell A. Bradley of Ophir were married on Saturday, May 15, by Rev. Rosco Brong, at the Brong home, in the presence of a few close relatives of the bride. The bride's brother, Joe Ron Cantrell, and her brother-in-law, Austin Hill, were official witnesses to the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cantrell; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Bradley. The Courier joins their many friends in wishing the young couple a happy and prosperous life.

Saving Her Quarter

Miss Mary Taylor, a 15 year old Laurel county girl, going out to spend a quarter, put the coin in her mouth. In a moment of excitement, she swallowed the coin. Amazed at what she had done, she told her mother, and a doctor was summoned. By the time the doctor arrived about four hours had passed and he found that the coin had passed from the stomach to the intestines, and he could do nothing to recover it. He put his patient at ease, however, by assuring her no ill effects would likely follow.

FOR MAGISTRATE

Lenox, Ky., May 17, 1937
To the voters of magisterial district no. 4:

I am taking this method of announcing my candidacy for the nomination for the office of justice of the peace for the fourth district of Morgan county.

If nominated and elected, justice will be my motto. I served two years as constable with Mr. Bailey since he has been magistrate, and so far as I have ever known my work was satisfactory. When the papers were delivered to me I executed them on both the good and bad, as well as kinfolks and strangers, all alike. I believe in a fair and square deal with all who may be concerned.

I feel that I am both qualified and worthy of taking care of the county's affairs so far as a magistrate is concerned in the fiscal court, for I have served the other man for the last twenty years taking care of business, and if I had not been made of the right kind of stuff and my heart set right to the other man, I sure do not believe I would have been on the job this long. So with the past experience that I have had with the business I have been connected with, I feel that I can do a good part with the county affairs.

With regard to the roads, I do not believe anyone would try harder for the betterment of the road situation in our district than myself, for the support of my children depends altogether on our roads, and my light would be at all times for better road conditions.

If you want to know anything of my past life and character, ask others who know me.

I am asking one thing of the best way I know how to get your support in the August primary.

Very truly yours,

LUTHER ADKINS

WARREN FISHER UNDER FIRE

Warren Fisher is editor and publisher of the Carlisle Mercury, which paper is the official news organ of Nicholas county. The county has just emerged from a local option election. The ballots for the election were printed in the Mercury shop. Among other things the law requires that the date of the election be printed on the back of the ballot in connection with the official certification of the judge and clerk. There is no provision in law for the date to appear on the front or face of the ballot. It had been the custom in some print shops—the Mercury shop among them—to print the date also on the face of the ballot, which custom was followed for the local option election.

In submitting his copy to the printer for the local option election editor, Fisher also submitted an old ballot dated 1913, from which the printer made up the ballot for the special election May 8, 1937. The copy was proofread in the Mercury office and approved. It was then submitted to county officials for approval and it likewise received their approval.

The ballots were printed and the election was held. And then someone discovered that the date line on the front of the ballot read "Election held May 8, 1913." The date line on the back—the one required by law—read "Election held May 8, 1937." And now Mr. Fisher is accused of intentionally printing a wrong date on the ballot to give grounds for an election contest.

Most of us do foolish things about elections, many of which it were better if they had never been done. Anyone who knows even a little bit about a print shop knows that all copy is checked several times and that extreme care is taken to turn out correct work. To accuse a newspaperman of intentional error in a printed product is a sign of either gross ignorance or extreme idiocy.

Trek to Richmond

Richmond, Ky., May 14.—Morgan county was represented by twelve high school seniors and teachers from Ezel high school on the second high school day observed at Eastern Kentucky Teachers' college, Friday, May 7. The day's program was attended by 1,200 high school seniors, principals, superintendents, parents, and friends, representing 78 schools from 35 counties.

Bank Holiday

The Commercial bank will be closed and not open for business on Monday, May 24, on account of public dedication exercises at the new school building.

Honors Our County

Mrs. Roosevelt will dedicate the new WPA high school building here Monday, May 24. The hour is near and history will be made in Morgan county. I wish to thank all the people of West Liberty and Morgan county for their cooperation and help in making the necessary preparations to receive the largest crowd ever to assemble in Morgan county. I have done my best to make the program a success. I solicit the support of every citizen until this program is over. I am sure I express the sentiments of the people of Morgan county in saying that we are very grateful for this tribute paid to us by the "first lady of the land."

Governor A. B. Chandler is expected to arrive here on Monday, May 24. They will be in West Liberty on Sunday and will establish headquarters at the Childers hotel. Our Red Cross emergency station also will be established there. A traffic committee is searching diligently for parking space for the thousands of cars they expect to be in West Liberty. Governor Chandler will appear on the dedicatory program and we wish to thank him for his thoughtfulness and cooperation in making this occasion successful.

Mrs. Roosevelt will travel by car to West Liberty. She will be received by the reception committee in the library room of our new WPA high school building about 9:30 a.m. Then she will make a tour of the building and have lunch at the Cole hotel in a private dining room. Mrs. Roosevelt will appear on the afternoon program and everybody is eager to hear her dedicatory speech. Photographers and news writers from the various papers will be here to give a detailed report of the program.

I wish to take this opportunity to ask the people of West Liberty to be just as conservative with the water as possible, because it will take an extensive amount of water to accommodate this large crowd.

Every effort possible is being made to place loud speakers on the outside of the building so that those who can't get in will be able to hear. A platform is being constructed so that Mrs. Roosevelt may appear to greet the thousands who are unable to get in. It is the wish of the Morgan county board of education and the program committee that everybody will be able to get in, but due to the fact of the enormous crowds only about two thousand will be able to hear the dedicatory speech. There will be only a limited amount of reservations made for the school officialdom, the WPA officialdom, and the NYA officialdom. Those who are anxious and desirous of getting in will have to be at the door ready to get in when the door is opened.

The board of education regrets that it does not have any available ground for free parking except the school lot and it is our opinion that the people will need this lot as a stamping ground. The board of education feels that free parking space should be offered to the visitors to our town who have come a long way to be present at the dedication. We must live on; and if we try to capitalize on this occasion too much, we may get things out of tune and leave the wrong impression with our visitors. We may want them to come again sometime; we surely will. We sincerely solicit the efforts of every business man in West Liberty to help us find adequate free parking space for the visitors during this educational event. Anyone having a free lot or a sug-

LITTERAL

Bulford Litteral of White Oak was killed instantly Friday, May 14, while working in the woods. He was killed by a large log which rolled over his body.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Esther Johnson Litteral, and a little son, Jimmy, his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Litteral and eight brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services were held at the Southfork church Saturday by J. F. Walter. Burial was in the Southfork cemetery.

HAVENS

Hiram Havens, son of Jesse Havens and Cecelia (Bryant) Havens, was born Jan. 9, 1872, departed this life May 12, 1937, aged 65 years, 4 months, and 3 days.

He was married to Joyce Alvilda Chesapeake on Nov. 26, 1896. To this union were born nine children, as follows: Mrs. Wm. Carter of Stacy Fork, Mrs. George Long of Frenchburg, Mrs. Mitchell Evans of Ezel, Mrs. Leslie Evans of Liberty Road, Mrs. Amy Adams of Stacy Fork, Mrs. Boba Bryant of Liberty Road, Jesse L. Havens of Greencastle, Harvey of Lexington River, and Roy Havens of Middletown, Ohio.

Besides his widow and nine children, there are left to mourn his loss 33 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. These brothers, Hiram Havens of Mize, Sammie Havens of Mt. Sterling, and Robert Havens of Mt. Sterling; two sisters, Mrs. Reece Flannery of Elliott county and Mrs. Tommie Crouch of Ham county; and many other relatives and friends.

He joined the Centerville church and was baptized about 33 years ago. He repeatedly told friends during his last sickness that he was ready to go where the Lord called him, and expressed the hope he had of living on in a better world; so our loss is heavenly gain.

BASEBALL

The American Legion baseball team defeated a team from Kentucky Wesleyan college, playing independently of the college, by a score of 6-2 on Sunday afternoon.

West Liberty garnered 8 hits, while the visitors were getting only 4 hits. Carl Elam led the attack for West Liberty with 2 hits, while Compton led the visitors with 2 hits.

Batteries for West Liberty were Nickell and H. Stacy; for the visitors Goodman, Combs, and Stainback.

Lord's Supper the first Sunday night in each month.

Everybody is invited to attend these services. "Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together."

ROSCO BRONG, Pastor

gestion to offer concerning the traffic situation, please contact Mr. C. P. Henry, chairman of the traffic committee. Mr. Henry has been requested by the state highway patrol sergeant to report to the Childers hotel on Sunday, May 23, at 4 p.m., concerning the traffic problems. The state highway patrol were of the opinion that free parking space should be provided by the town of West Liberty. Any suggestions or ideas you may have concerning this matter, please communicate them to Mr. C. P. Henry. It is my hope that the people of Morgan county will feel that they are hosts to the large crowd that is expected to attend, and that they will manifest in unqualified terms the good old mountain hospitality.

All eyes of the state are turning to West Liberty on May 24, and I feel assured the people of West Liberty will be equal to the occasion. Let us join in making history for our county. Dedication for the first time one of the best high school buildings in eastern Kentucky and having for the dedicatory speaker for the first time in the history of Morgan county the "first lady of the land," who no doubt has endeared herself to multitudes of people.

"Let the children choose, husband. Which shall it be, darlings? Will you wait for father and mother and have the tree tomorrow?"

"Now!" almost shouted Bess.

"Tomorrow!" said Tommy decidedly. "Cause you know, even if it did happen so long ago, father might be disappointed not to see the tree when it's new. Say, grandmother, can we put some of the small, round candies in those little red shoes of father's and hang them on the tree so that he can see them and remember when he was a little baby?"

Silently grandmother turned to leave the room and get the shoes, but grandfather caught her hand as she passed and held it to his cheeks, whispering: "Courage, wife, from the mouths of babes you know comes the truest wisdom and this is the Christ Child's night, beloved, a night for childhood's simple miracles."

The red shoes were lined with soft paper, laced with gay ribbon, filled to overflowing and hung side by side upon the topmost branch.

"One for father and one for mother," sang Bess, clapping her hands.

"Let's put a motto heart on each and mark their names. Here's one that says 'You are my sweetheart,' and another 'Forever an' ever,'" said Tommy, capering over to a bowl in which were more than a quart of flat, lozenge-like candies, hearts, rounds and diamonds bearing sentimental mottoes lettered in red, these being Eli's contribution to the tree.

"Only one little story before we go to bed and please, grandmother, if we fall asleep quick and mother and father aren't too tired when they come, won't you wake us up to light the tree?"

Grandmother promised. "And what story shall I tell?" she asked, so great a weariness settling on her that she wondered if she could form words into the simplest tale.

"A story about the so very long ago, that father didn't see, and the Christ-baby. You know him very well, grandmother, don't you? 'Cause you are lots older than we."

Grandmother sat a moment with her hands folded quietly in her lap and her eyes closed, for her thoughts were so far away that open eyes could not follow them. Then when they thought that she must have fallen asleep she looked up quickly. "I—I am a little weary and my thoughts are straying. Yes, I've lived a long time, dearie, but not as long as the blessed story of old."

CHAPTER IX

For a moment no one moved or spoke. The hound lying close to the hearth, usually alert to every passing sound and scent, twitched and whimpered in his dreams, stretched his fore paws and settled to heavy sleep.

"Aren't you going to tell us the story, grandmother?" begged Bess. "An old one will do if you are so very tired."

The clock struck eight. "So late already, it must be a short story, darlings, or Christmas will like us unawares. Do you tell it for me, Grandfather, for somehow my tongue cannot find words."

Holding Bess in her arms grandmother turned from the hearth to the deep chair in the chimney nook from which the Glen road might be seen, and grandfather sitting erect and drawing Tommy between his knees spoke as if he saw the story that he was telling through the uncurtained window where the rolling hills met the starlit sky.

"Long ago, almost two thousand years as time is counted, the world was growing very hard and selfish and the Creator, Heart of God, saw that the power was not being divided fairly between the rulers that he had to carry out his great plan. Heart of Man when he was put upon the earth to be its governor had a counselor given him that he must consult in everything and this was Heart of Nature.

"Heart of Nature knew about all the things that belong to the body of man and the animals; he was given charge of the earth, the seas and sky. He worked for strength, for perfect forms and beautiful colors; he painted the sunsets and all the wonderful changes of the sea. In all his realm the greatest was the strongest in body, or the most quick to kill, and every live thing in his realm thought first of itself or its own young.

"Heart of God, who had made the plan, ruled in the things of the spirit, the things which outlast the strongest body, the greatest mountain or the tallest tree. He taught mercy, kindness to the weak and all unselfishness. Between these two stood Heart of Man, and had he listened to the counsel of each in its own good place all would have gone well. But he did not, he listened only to Heart of Nature whom he did not thoroughly understand and so learned to be more pitiless day by day.

"Man does not understand me or my meaning, else he would carry out my Plan," said Heart of God. I must send a messenger to him to make my voice plainer—a messenger whose word, being the truth, shall be understood by all people in all languages, for all time. How shall he go?"

"The poor will be afraid of a King. A high priest can never enter the hearts or houses of the people. It is only Love who can make my meaning plain.

"There is but one thing that every one will understand and love and that is a little child. As such a child my Son, my Heart of Hearts, shall go. He must be a child of poor people that they may no longer feel that they are set apart, for poverty must always be the lot of the many."

"Soon after this it was whispered to a young wife named Mary, whose husband was called Joseph, that this little child was to be sent to her and she was filled with both joy and fear at the responsibility.

"One day Mary and Joseph, who was a carpenter, left their home to travel to the next town to pay their taxes. When they reached there it was toward night and they were very tired. There were many other people in this town of Bethlehem that night, and the inn was full, so that the only place that Mary and Joseph could find a shelter to sleep was a shed where the cattle were kept and there in a manger of hay Mary made her bed.

"In that country it was not cold as it is here at Christmas time and the sheep were sleeping out on the hills where they pastured in the day, the shepherds watching them. Above, the stars shone bright and clear and among them was one great star that no one remembered ever to have seen before.

"Then as the night wore on the wonderful hour came when the message was completed and God sent the little Christ-baby to be born on earth to be the Light of which the new star in the sky was a sign. There in the stable wrapped in coarse clothes he lay in his mother's arms and a wonderful light shone about him, greater than from all the stars outside. Some Wise Men of another country whose knowledge also came from Heart of God were traveling that way on their camels, and saw the new star and, led by it, found the Christ-baby in the manger. Then they gave him gifts of gold, and fragrant spices, myrrh and frankincense.

"When Herod, the king of that country, heard that a baby had been born, a child that the people whispered was to become a great ruler, he did not understand and, being afraid of losing his own earthly power, he tried in vain to kill the little Christ.

"If this had been all, the story of the little boy born of poor parents in a shed, and happening so long ago, as your father says, it might not have mattered much to us now, and perhaps people would not have kept his birthday for all these years and called it Christmas. But listen, children! It was not only then that it happened, it is happening now as well. To some one every Christmas Eve a Christ-baby is born to tell that Heart of God still cares for us, and sends anew the message of Love to keep us pitiful and tender.

"Few people remember Herod the King, but the Love the Christ-baby brought and the sacrifice he stood for come with every little child and where one such comes there lives anew the Christmas Spirit. Tonight everywhere Heart of God is stirring Heart of Man to protect and care for children."

"When father was little did you love him and think he was a Christ-baby?" asked Tommy thoughtfully turning toward grandmother.

"Yes," she answered softly.

SAVING TIME IN KITCHEN CHORES

Efficient Cooking Equipment Important Factor.

By EDITH M. BARBER

THE efficient housekeeper is always on the lookout for kitchen equipment which will help her cut down the time of preparation of meals. If she can afford an electric mixer, she will find in it a first aid for many purposes. Suitable types of cooking utensils are not only time saving but also an insurance that results will be good. A saucepan of a proper size, for instance, is a necessary adjunct to a successful sauce.

For many purposes heat proof casseroles which can be used for baking and serving are useful. Recently a heat proof glass saucepan and frying pan have been added to the list of convenient utensils. Both of these have removable handles which are useful when transferring these dishes from the stove to the table. The saucepan has a cover which fits perfectly. I like this particularly well for cooking vegetables in a small amount of water as, because of the transparency, the mind can be relieved from worry as to the progress of cooking.

Another new utensil is a stain-proof aluminum mixing bowl which has a small handle at the side which may be grasped while mixtures are stirred or beaten. Other conveniences which are not so new but which are novel are the racks for pans and plates which fit in covered shelves, the cover racks which can be fastened to the wall or closet door and the transparent flat-topped covers for piles of your best plates and for your mixer. These are dust proof and for this reason are well-liked particularly by the business woman housekeeper.

Pineapple and Mint.

Slice pineapple in one-eighth inch slices. Sprinkle with sugar and chill in refrigerator until ready to serve. Pour one tablespoon of sherry over each serving and garnish with sprigs of mint.

Fried Liver.

Pour boiling water over one-half inch slices of calves' liver. Drain at once and remove skin and veins. Dip in seasoned flour and saute slowly on both sides in bacon fat or butter. The whole time of cooking should not be more than five minutes, as over-cooking will toughen the fibers.

Savory Canape.

1 cup butter
2 tablespoons capers
1 tablespoon minced parsley.
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
12 strips toast
1 hard-boiled egg
2 ounces caviar
Cream butter and mix with it capers, parsley, onion juice and lemon juice. Spread on rounds of brown bread. In center place one slice of hard-boiled egg and a small round of caviar.

Chutney Canape.

1 package cream cheese
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon paprika
12 rounds Boston brown bread
6 ripe olives
3 tablespoons chutney
Soften the cheese and add onion juice and paprika. Spread on rounds of brown bread. Mince olives and heap in center of each canape. Arrange chutney around the outside.

Corn Pudding.

2 cups chopped corned corn
3 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons melted butter
3 cups of scalded milk
1 teaspoonful salt, pepper
Combine ingredients. Pour into buttered baking dish and set in pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) until firm, about forty minutes.

Milk-Vegetable Soup.

2 cups diced cooked vegetables
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion
1 quart milk
Salt
Pepper
Nutmeg or chopped parsley
Carrots, celery, turnips, are diced and cooked together until soft. Chop the onion and cook in butter until yellow. Add cooked vegetables, liquor, milk and seasoning. Heat, sprinkle with parsley or nutmeg and serve at once. The same recipe may be used for a cream soup by blending three tablespoonfuls of flour with melted butter.

Golden Tapioca Cream.

3 tablespoons granulated tapioca
3 cups milk
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Scald milk in double boiler and slowly add tapioca. Cook until clear and add some of hot mixture to yolks of eggs slightly beaten with sugar and salt. Return to boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon in a straight line when tested. Remove from fire and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Flavor, pour into pudding dish and chill.

Melba Toast.

Cut bread in thin slices and arrange on a baking sheet. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees Fahrenheit, until light brown. The slices will curl slightly during the baking. Serve unbuttered for lunch or dinner.

Lesson for May 23

THE WEAKNESS OF ESAU

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 25:27-34; 27:41.

GOLDEN TEXT—And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. I Corinthians 9:25.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Twin Brothers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Twin Brothers Trading.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—To study the portion of Scripture which shows the folly of living for the flesh, and we are living in a world where the flesh and its appetites are given full sway.

One of the difficult and at the same time challenging things about teaching the Word of God is that its divine precepts are diametrically opposed to the current philosophy of men. In our lesson of last week we saw that meekness and forbearance are strong and commendable qualities in a world which magnifies brute force. Today we are to study a portion of Scripture which shows the folly of living for the flesh, and we are living in a world where the flesh and its appetites are given full sway.

Professors in many colleges are openly advocating the free exercise of every fleshly appetite as a normal expression of life. Morality is cast off; the flesh rules. Many of the nations of the earth look upon boys and girls as merely so many physical units useful in a future war. Motherhood has been degraded into an animal-like function, solely for the breeding of more manpower. One nation recently advocated as great an increase as possible in the birth of illegitimate children to be cared for by the state as a measure of national security. One shudders to mention such unspeakable wickedness, but even so we have only touched the surface.

Is it true that man is but a beast? Is there no spirit in man capable of fellowship with God? Has the moral law of God been abrogated? The story of Esau and Jacob is most pointed and instructive in its answer to such questions. Two New Testament quotations have been chosen to express the truth of an Old Testament lesson; namely, Galatians 5:17, and 6:7.

The Flesh Lusteth Against the Spirit

Esau is a type of the man of the flesh. He was "a cunning hunter, a man of the field." Evidently he was an athletic, outdoor man of attractive personality, of free and easy-going spirit. He was a hail-fellow-well-met. Had he lived in our day he would have been featured in the rotogravure, would probably have been in the movies, would possibly have been a great athlete, and the good-looking boy who sits hearts a-flutter at the country club dance.

He came from the hunt, and he had found nothing. He was hungry. What a type this is of the folly of seeking satisfaction in the world. It never satisfies. Ever all its glitter and glamour, it is empty and shallow. He had a birthright—a valuable possession in any case, but doubly so as a son of Abraham. But he was hungry, he would simply die if he did not eat. His brother Jacob, inspired by his scheming mother who was not willing to abide God's time for the fulfillment of his promise, had the savory potage ready to tempt him and he sold his birthright for a "gulf of that red stuff," for so might v. 30 be translated.

One is reminded of a clergyman who attended the Keswick Conference in England. He sent a request for prayer to the platform and asked this question: "I have a habit which is dishonoring to Christ. If I give it up I will die. What shall I do?" The wise and complete answer was one word—"Die." Rather should we lose our body and its desires than to lose our soul.

II. "Whatsoever a Man Soweth That Shall He Also Reap" (Gen. 27:41-45).

Jacob and his mother found that one lie called for another, and ultimately their deceit led (as deceit always does) to the place of reckoning. The law of sowing and reaping is inexorable. Jacob fled from his angry brother, Rebekah thought it would be for "a few days" (v. 44), but it proved to be twenty years, and she never saw her favorite son again.

Let us make no mistake about it. Our sins will always find us out. Even God's people must learn to walk uprightly before Him if they are to walk in peace.

For Dress and Utility

"WHY Mollie R. are you going out again? My own mother has become a gadabout and all because she made herself such a pretty new dress. Really, Ma, those soft graceful lines make you look lots slimmer. I think the long rippling collar has a good deal to do with it. Or maybe it's because the skirt fits where it should and has plenty of room at the bottom."

"Yes, My Darling Daughter." "Daughter, dear, how you do run on! Imitate Sis; put your apron on and have the dusting done when I get back from the Civic Improvement League meeting. And speaking of aprons, that is the cleverest one Sis ever had. I love the way it crosses in the back."

"So do I, Mom, and see how it covers up my dress all over. Good-by, Mom, have a good time."

Sisterly Chit Chat

"Sis, run upstairs for my apron, won't you? I wouldn't have a spot on this, my beloved model, for all the world. It's my idea of smooth: all these buttons; no belt; these here new puffed sleeves; and this flare that's a flare."

"Just you wait, Miss, till I grow up! Your clothes won't have a look in because I've already begun to Sew-My-Own. All right, I'm going."

And so on well into the afternoon!

The Patterns.

Pattern 1268 is for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 1 1/2 yards of 1 1/2 inch bias binding for trimming.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER RABBIT GETS HIS WISH

JUMPER THE HARE, who is Peter Rabbit's big cousin and had come down from the Great Green Forest, had seen very little of Peter lately because he disliked to leave the Green Forest, and ever since he had seen those strange tracks deep in the Green Forest Peter had kept close to the dear Old Briar Patch. So Jumper had not heard Peter's story, which nobody believed and about which ev-

"I—I knew you wouldn't believe me. Nobody does," said Peter sadly.

Everybody teased Peter whenever they saw him. One moonlight night Jumper took it into his head to visit his cousin and find out why he had been keeping so close to the dear Old Briar Patch.

First making sure that the way was clear, for Jumper is very, very timid, he scampered across to the Old Briar Patch as fast as his long legs could take him and was quite out of breath when he got there. He found Peter sitting under a bramble bush looking quite as miserable as he felt.

"Hello, Cousin Peter! Where have you been keeping yourself lately? I haven't seen you or your tracks in the Green Forest for days and days. Are you sick?" asked Jumper.

"No," replied Peter shortly, "I'm not sick, but I guess I will be if this keeps up much longer." Peter looked very glum and unhappy.

"If what keeps up?" asked Jumper, looking very much puzzled.

"Having everybody make fun of me every time I show myself, and nobody to believe what I say," replied Peter.

Jumper looked more puzzled than ever. "That is bad, Cousin Peter," said he. "It's bad enough to be made fun of. I know all about that. Everybody makes fun of me because I have such long legs and because I am so timid. I've grown used to it now, but still I don't enjoy being laughed at. But it's a whole lot worse not to have people believe what you tell them. I had a whole lot rather have people laugh at me than to say the things they do about Sammy Jay. No one believes him even when he does tell the truth, and that's perfectly dreadful."

"I know it," said Peter mournfully. "That's the trouble with me now. I've been telling the truth and no one believes it. Now they never will believe anything I say, and they'll think of me just as they do of Sammy Jay, and say the same dreadful things about me."

"But what is it that they don't believe? You haven't told me," insisted Jumper the Hare.

"I—I don't want to tell you because probably you won't believe me either," replied Peter. Now, this wasn't quite true. At least part wasn't. He did want to tell. He fairly ached to tell. But he was afraid that Jumper wouldn't believe his story. But after Jumper had solemnly promised that he would believe, no matter how hard it was to, Peter told him all about his visit to the deepest part of the Green Forest and about the great big strange tracks he had found there in the snow—tracks as big as Farmer Brown's boys, only different, and showing the marks of great claws.

Jumper had picked up his long legs at the mention of those strange tracks, and now he was sitting up very straight and staring at Peter with his eyes very wide open.

"I—I knew you wouldn't believe me. Nobody does," said Peter sadly.

"But I do!" cried Jumper. "I've seen tracks just like those lots and lots of times way off in the Great Woods where I came from. I was just surprised that there should be any down here in the Green Forest. Of course I believe you, Cousin Peter. I think I will go see them for myself. It's a long time since I have seen any."

"Oh, I'm so glad!" cried Peter. "At last his wish had come true—he had found some one to believe him. He was so happy over it that he quite forgot to ask Jumper who could have made the strange tracks."

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By Roger B. Whitman

PREVENTING PAINT FROM PEELING

A FRIEND recently wrote me of trouble with peeling paint:

"On the east wall of my house there is a small window of a bathroom with a flat frame four inches wide. The surface is practically flush with the stucco. Within two years after that frame was painted for the first time, the paint began to peel, and it has continued to peel after each repainting."

He wants to know where the trouble lies; why paint should peel on that particular window frame, and nowhere else.

The most usual cause for the peeling of paint is moisture in the wood. On a dry and warm day, the moisture is drawn out through the surface and breaks the paint away from the wood. With this in mind, my friend's problem is to find out how moisture gets into the wood. Until he does so, paint on that frame will continue to peel.

One possibility is that moisture enters the wood from inside. Being a bathroom window, steam and moisture in the room air may easily be responsible. In that case much or all of the trouble can be averted by giving all of the inside parts of the window two coats of high quality spar varnish, or one coat of aluminum paint followed by spar varnish or enamel.

As the window is on an east wall, it is exposed to the drive of easterly storms. A heavy wind forces water into any cracks there may be, no matter how fine. Quite possibly the window frame does not make an absolutely tight joint with the stucco. Again, a window on the floor above may be responsible, or a crack in the upper part of the wall. Water entering a wall runs down

THE DIAL OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WE FIND it easy to forget. The songs we heard, the smiles we met. We find it easy to remember. The faithful friend, the fading ember.

Yet memories are things to choose. This to recall and that to refuse. Make each delight or each disaster Either our servant or our master.

Yes, we who turn the dial of life Need not remember care and strife. The tawdry tune, the tiny meter, For there are other programs sweeter.

We know that other things life has Than jumbles of discordant jazz. We turn the dial, and very near it Pick up a tune that lifts the spirit.

And thoughts are things we may control To help or hurt the listening soul. Tune out the sad, tune in the pleasant.

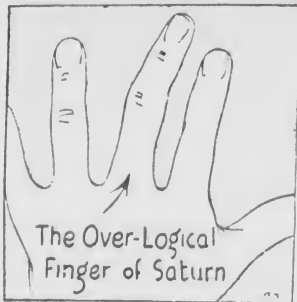

Tune out the past, tune in the present. Yes, so may one control the mind, Tune out the mean, tune in the kind. Old ills forgetting and forgiving, Only the lovely things re-living.

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis

OCCASIONALLY one meets a man or woman who seems to delight in applying elaborate rules of reasoning to practically everything in life. And yet despite this ceaseless analyzing, such an individual never seems to get much accomplished. The reason, of course, is that so much mental effort and time are consumed in the dissection of whys and wherefores that initiative and action which get things done are bound to suffer.

Look carefully at the second finger of such a person and very likely you will find the characteristic which this lesson points out.

The Overlogical Finger of Saturn. Excessive length and leanness, protruding knobby knuckles and absence of flexibility are the outstanding indications in this type of second finger.

With the fingers extended and pressed together such a finger of Saturn will be found to have far greater length than that of the forefinger, which sometimes seems quite dwarfed by comparison. The spaces between the knuckles seem disproportionately long. The nail is usually narrow or "pinched" in form and is often deeply set.

A second finger of this type usually inclines toward the forefinger when the hand is extended.

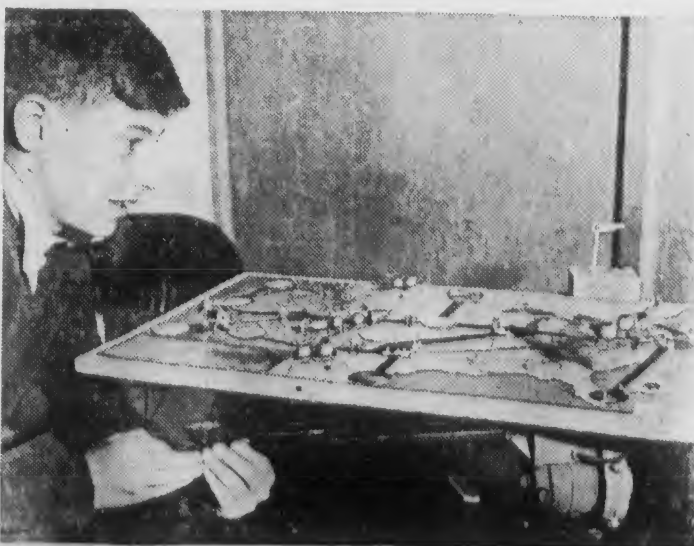

One may look for hyperlogical mentality with second fingers of this type, one that is likely to carry logic far beyond normal bounds, and in business particularly one that frequently argues away possibilities of profit from ventures which are real opportunities.

Transcontinental Airplane Line

By remote control, James D. Burke, eleven-year-old son of Richard J. Burke, an inventor, of Pasadena, Calif., is operating the world's first and only model transcontinental airplane line. The tiny "ships" shown actually ascend about three inches above the yard-long map of the United States and can be kept stationary in the air above any city for as long as the operator desires. They land and take off with arrow-like precision. The unique affair is the result of an experiment conducted by inventor Burke in air phenomena. It is worked on an air pressure principle.

FARMERS' COLUMN

How to Measure Land

Simple, practical, and accurate methods of measuring land are given in a new circular published by the college of agriculture of the university of Kentucky. It was prepared especially for farmers who, in co-operating in the agricultural conservation program, need to know how to ascertain the area of fields and how to lay out fields to obtain given acreages.

Experience in checking compliance in the farm program revealed much inaccuracy in measuring fields, by pacing or stepping distances. Fifty-nine farmers, whose tobacco acreage averaged 4.4 acres per farm, over-estimated the acreage by an average of nearly an acre to the farm. Thirty-four farmers, whose acreages averaged 7.2 acres per farm, underestimated them by an average of nearly a acre and a quarter per farm.

The circular was written by Earl G. Welch, field agent in agricultural engineering. Ask the county agent or write to the college for circular no. 291, "Simple Problems in Land Management."

Hybrid Seed Corn

The launching of a program to increase corn yield thru the use of hybrid seed is announced by the Kentucky college of agriculture. Thru the agency of Utopia clubs, which are made up of older boys and girls on farms, hybrid seed is being used this year in 23 counties both to demonstrate its superior qualities and to start production on a commercial scale.

One hundred eighty-four boys are cooperating in the work. Each is growing an acre of hybrid corn, usually in the same field with other corn, in order that farmers in the community may make a direct comparison between it and common kinds of corn.

One Utopia club in each county, as a club project, is growing an acre of hybrid corn in order to start its commercial production.

At the agricultural experiment station at Lexington, where many years have been devoted to corn breeding, it is said that the hybrid corn yields 15 to 25 percent better than other kinds, that it is drought and disease resistant, and has superior strength in its roots and stalks. That is, it stands up better against winds and storms.

The production of hybrid seed corn is said to be one of the most interesting recent developments in agriculture. It was made possible by the practical application of science to corn breeding, and it is expected to materially increase corn production when applied on a wide scale.

FARM PROGRAM

Within a few days, farmers of Morgan county will receive a letter containing statements of their 1937 soil conservation program. This will be a very important statement and every farmer should know exactly what everything means that is on the statement.

In order that every farmer may better understand the farm program as related to his or her particular farm, 20 meetings are being scheduled over the county for the purpose of explaining the statements that farmers will have received.

We feel that this is the most important letter on this program that farmers will get from this office this year, and that the meetings following this letter will be the most important meetings that have been or will be held on this program this year. Be sure to be present on some one of these meetings.

The county and community committees are anxious to see every farmer signed up in this program to carry out every part of the program 100 percent. YANDAL WRATHER

4-H Club Members Will Study State

"Know Kentucky" or "Get acquainted with your state" is to be the central theme of the 17th annual junior week at the university of Kentucky June 7-12. Approximately 600 farm boys and girls from 100 counties, selected in local contests, will be in attendance.

Featuring the history and development of Kentucky, instruction will be given in the literature, music, mineral resources, agriculture, industry, parks, and hospitality of the state.

The usual contests are to be held, including the judging of canned and baked foods, clothing, and room improvement exhibits. In a style revue, boys will attract girls from at least 40 counties, the best dressed girl will be selected to represent the state in a national contest. The healthiest boy and girl also will be selected, and will go to the national 4-H congress in Chicago.

Each county will send to junior week a highly trained team in farm practices or homemaking, and their demonstrations will be another feature of the program.

At the morning assemblies the boys and girls will be privileged to hear noted speakers, while evening speakers will bring to a close each day's program.

POMP 4-H CLUB

For the past two weeks our demonstration team had been working and preparing to demonstrate the making of soda biscuits at the county contest.

The contest was held at West Liberty on Monday, May 17. The girls, Frieda Cox and Virginia Lewis, did excellent work in demonstrating the making of soda biscuits. In reward for their faithful appearance to practice, the girls won the contest. They will represent Morgan county in the state-wide contest to be held at Lexington in June.

Judith Day also won the style show with her costume. She will represent Morgan county with her costume at Lexington in June.

Each county is allowed to take only three girls to junior week. They are to be the winners of the demonstration contest and the winner of the style show. We feel we have a right to be justly proud of our girls, since they won both contests.

Every so often an ad is run in the paper threatening in the mildest sort of a way to take some sort of action if licenses are not bought. BUT NO REAL ACTION IS EVER TAKEN. We do not presume to say whether the present system of reimbursing sheep owners from the dog license fund for their losses is the proper thing or not. Maybe there is some fairer way of raising the funds. We do know that since the law requires the licensing of all dogs, the officers sworn to enforce that law should do it. This our Madison county officers have failed utterly to do.—Madison County Post.

Coronation—History's Greatest Pageant

London.—England's coronation procession, hailed by 6,000,000 onlookers as the world's greatest show, as it passed Victoria fountain on the way to Westminster Abbey. The royal coach, bearing the king and queen, is in the foreground.

George VI Is Crowned

London.—In the climax of the coronation ceremony, the archbishop of Canterbury places the Crown of Edward the Confessor upon the head of George VI, his hands trembling with emotion.

U. S. Delegate

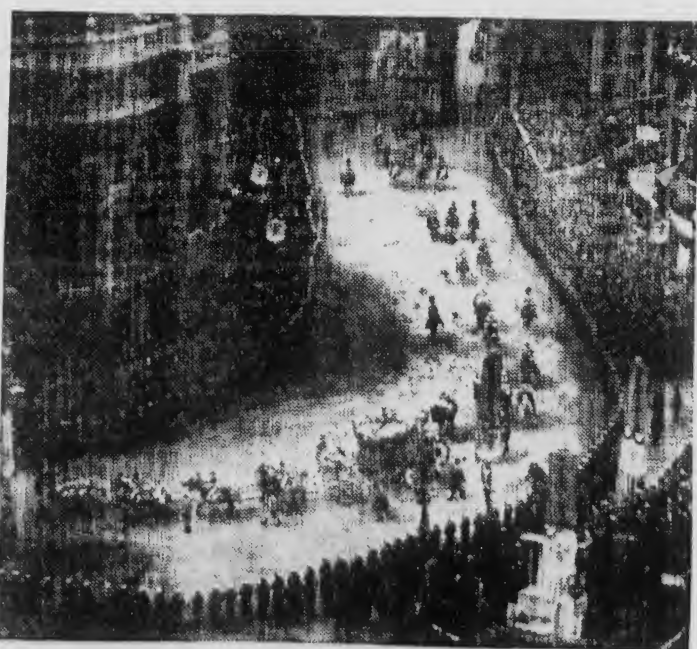

London.—As one of the representatives of the United States, James W. Gerard (above) attended the coronation of George VI.

King George VI

London.—King George VI, newly crowned, as he appeared to the throngs after coronation.

Returning Home in Triumph

London.—An impressive view of the royal coach of state and attendant procession as they wended their way back from the coronation ceremony in Westminster abbey. The coach bore the king and queen.

Resplendent Nobles in Coronation Pomp

London.—Mounted on prancing chargers in gorgeous trappings, the foremost nobles of all the British empire, garbed in colorful uniforms, ride to the coronation of their monarch.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Curing Stuttering.
CHIN LEE, ARIZ.—Away up here in the Indian country comes a newspaper, saying some expert at correcting human utterance has turned up with a cure for stuttering.

But why? By his own admission, nearly all stutterers can sing and most of them can swear fluently, thus providing superior emotional outlets in two directions. One of the smartest criminal lawyers I know deliberately cultivated a natural impediment in his speech. In court-room debates it gave him more time to think up either the right questions or to figure out the right answers.

And one of the most charming voices I ever heard belonged to a Louisiana girl whose soft southern accents were fascinatingly interrupted at intervals by a sudden stammer—like unexpected ripples in a gently flowing brook.

Irvin S. Cobb

WASNT SINGING

A gigantic trooper was brought before his commanding officer one morning charged with being disorderly in the public street.

"Who makes the charge?" asked the colonel.

"I do, sir," replied the sergeant.

"I was in the town last night when I heard someone bellowing and singing. It was a Long Way to Tipperary, about 300 yards away. I went to the spot and saw the prisoner—Trooper Smith—singing at the top of his voice."

"And you could hear him 300 yards away?" asked the colonel.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, what have you to say, Trooper Smith?" continued the colonel, turning to the prisoner.

"Please, sir," said Trooper Smith. "I was only 'umming."

CONTACT

"She's the coolest proposition I've ever met."

"Perhaps that's why you froze on to her so quick."

Getting Better

"If a child were to come in and say that her mother had sent her for a can of maltreated milk, what would you give her?" asked the dairyman of his new assistant.

"Why, malted milk, of course."

"Fine! Our last man hunted all over the shelves for a can of whipped cream." — Portland Express.

Josh the Genius

"So your boy Josh is a genius."

"I'm inclined to think so," answered Farmer Cornstossel.

"But geniuses seldom get rich or famous while they live."

"Well, I'm afraid that's pretty much how it is going to be with Josh."

Then What?

Jane, aged four, had formed the habit of breathing through her mouth. Her mother, who had been endeavoring to break her of the habit, said: "My dear, please close your lips."

"But, mother," said the child in a tone of exhausted patience, "I might want to say something."

Trying to Please

"Why don't you marry some good man?" asked the abrupt friend.

"How would you choose one," asked Miss Cayenne, "at a time when it is a universal fashion among all kinds of men to pretend to be bold and bad?"

Different Kind

"Is your insomnia improving any?"

"Yes—sometimes my foot goes to sleep now."

PLAYING SAFE

Gas Station Attendant—Heard you bought a well-going in for oil?

Customer—Not at all, want to continue to run my car.

Heard in Ottawas

Then there was the M. P.'s typist who always typed her employer's speeches from dictation instead of using shorthand.

"Because," she said, "although it takes a little longer, the noise of the machine keeps us both awake."

A Fierce Fight

Boxer—Have I done him any damage?

Disgusted Second—No, but keep swinging. The draft might give him a cold.

Fully Qualified

First Floorwalker—Poor old Perkins has completely lost his hearing. I'm afraid he'll lose his job.

Second Floorwalker—Nonsense. He's to be transferred to the complaint department.—City Club Life.

Misunderstood

Professor—My dear lady, may I ask if you intend to hear my lecture on Buddhism?

Lady—Certainly I shall attend; you know that I am very much interested in flowers!

By VIRGINIA VALE

BITTERLY does Miriam Hopkins regret the day last year when she told an interviewer that her judgment on screen stories for herself was usually bad. Whenever she gets balky about working in a picture selected for her, Sam Goldwyn reminds her of her own admission. Then he goes on to point out that she thought "Spendor" was a fine story and that she did not like "These Three." The latter was her greatest screen "Spendor."

Recently she commented "My Man" and at the same time she said she was not sure if it was really a good story to make a picture of. She said she was not sure if it was really a good story to make a picture of.

May 18.—Saturday and Sunday, May 22 and 23, is regular church time at Grassy Lick. Rev. Dallas Beulhimer is pastor. On Sunday they will observe the ordinance of the Lord's supper.

Bert Gevedon and Woodrow Fugate called on friends at Pekin on Sunday.

Mrs. Lula Gevedon, who has been ill for some time, is improving slowly.

Mrs. Ova Amyx, who has been ill for several weeks, seems to be better.

Kathlyn and Bert Gevedon attended the junior play at Ezel on Friday night.

"There's a destiny that guides us, None goes his way alone: What we sow in the lives of others Comes back into our own." O GEE!

JEPHTHA

May 17.—Ova Sparks has moved to Laurelbranch.

Ben Bolen Jr. has returned from visiting his son Nelson, who is working in Tennessee.

Miss Essie Ferguson, who is working at Ironton, Ohio, spent a few days last week with home folks here.

Miss Susan Ferguson, who completed her third year of high school at Crockett last week, is now at home, and was at West Liberty on Tuesday.

Uncle Scott Holbrook and his two daughters at home, Zona and Martha, are recovering from serious sickness.

G. C. Wingo of West Liberty is making preparations for a saw set on Gilliam branch.

Elder R. H. Ferguson announces a memorial meeting at his home on the first Sunday evening in June, following the morning service at Union church, in memory of his parents, H. C. and Cynthia Ferguson. SLAB

Mrs. George W. Barber of Dehart returned home Tuesday after a week's visit with her little granddaughter, Patricia Earl Murphy.

Maste Commissioner's Sale
MORGAN CIRCUIT COURT, KY.

Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, Plaintiff
Vs. Notice of Sale
Robert Cantrell, et al., Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Morgan circuit court, rendered at the March term, 1937, in the above styled cause, I will offer for sale at the front door of the court house in West Liberty, Kentucky, on Monday, the 24th day of May, 1937, at 1 o'clock p.m., or thereabouts, upon a credit of 6, 12, and 18 months, the following described property, to wit:

First tract: A certain tract or parcel of land situated in Morgan county, Kentucky, on waters of Coffee creek, a tributary of Williams creek of the Elk fork, and bounded as follows: On the north by the lands of Wiley Pelfrey; on the east by the lands of Hamilton heirs; on the south by lands of T. H. Bailey; on the west by lands of W. T. Hamilton.

Second tract: Bounded on the north by the lands of Jerry Wright et al.; on the east by the lands of Will Robins et al.; on the south by lands of Lee Buck Jones; on the west by the lands of Johnnie Wright.

I will first offer the above two tracts subject to and excluding the tract of land conveyed to Mollie Cantrell and by deed recorded in deed book 62, page 622, Morgan county clerk's office. If this is not sufficient to satisfy plaintiff's judgment herein and the cost of this action, amounting to about $1750.00, I will then offer for sale the said Mollie Cantrell tract or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy plaintiff's judgment and the cost of this action.

The purchaser will be required to assume all the unpaid taxes against the said property which become due and payable in the year 1937 and thereafter.

The purchaser will be required to execute bond, bearing 6 percent interest from date, with approved security, for the purchase money.

This 3rd day of May, 1937.
HARLEN MURPHY, M.C.M.C.C.

INSKO

May 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Arnett and children and Mrs. Arnett's mother, Mrs. Kirk, of Inez, spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Arnett, here.

Mrs. Virginia Caudill of Combs is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Vest, here, this week.

Grant Ferguson of Baileyville, W. Va., and his sister, Miss Ida Ferguson, of Williamson, W. Va., spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ferguson, here.

Carrie Margaret Jones spent last week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Logan Shackelford, at Fincastle.

H. H. Ferguson left Sunday for Baileyville, W. Va., where he plans to work a while.

The Sunday school here gave an interesting mother's day program on May 9. They had as visitors the members of the Fincastle Sunday school.

After the program, services were conducted by Revs. Hickman Nickell and James Perkins, and the day was well enjoyed by all who were present.

Chrystalline Ferguson and Howard Ferguson, of Baileyville, W. Va., are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. H. H. Ferguson. They are planning to spend the summer here.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

On May 11 Mrs. T. H. Caskey and daughter Nell had a lovely surprise for Mr. Caskey's birthday.

The affair was a six o'clock dinner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ova O. Hancy, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ratliff, Mr. and Mrs. Yandal Wraether, Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Neikirk, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Trayner and daughter Marieta Ann, J. B. May, and Mrs. D. R. Keaton. They and the family were all assembled in the dining room. The room was darkened, the table strewn with flowers, and the candles on the beautiful cake were lighted. As Mr. Caskey entered the dining room, all sang "Happy Birthday."

Mr. Caskey received many lovely gifts. Ere May 11, 1938, may he grow many years younger as he greets his many friends thru the year with his genial smile.
